

you know so that it can be forwarded.

As to Mr. Sewall's account, we were glad to get it even though it proved rather unsatisfactory.
We had two and <sup>three</sup> rooms at your home
for some time, besides the myriads of things your father did and made for us, of which no account was rendered, just as though he had done these and <sup>in</sup> doing those things

Riverdale
on the Hudson

Oct. 23rd 1902.

Dear Miss Sewall;

I told Katie that her favorite moustache cup had been sent with the rest of the freight.
She was very glad, of course.
At present there is no need of the chair which we forgot, but if there should be I will let assisted us in more ways than one. Our complaint is that his kindness and generosity are much too large, even though he refuses to write paupers & save his wife.

As to my having another table at some future date under the pines below your house, I shall be delighted if it is possible, because some of the very pleasant hours I spent in to-day were in working the and in feeling your presence so near.

My paper ~~relations~~ <sup>relations</sup> between father and mother for their silver wedding ~~anniversary~~ in case this reaches you in time.

Miss Sewall, you are yourself affected.

not bringing your feelings up properly. We will go on not being kind until he will welcome a band and a incurable criminal. Let him leave!

SKC

John J. Clavers.